WORKING FOR THE ICRC

Have you ever thought of working in the humanitarian field? Do you have 'soft' skills and professional experience? Would you like to involve yourself in humanitarian activities? If so, you may want to consider working for the ICRC.

Humanitarian missions enable you to protect and assist people enduring the consequences of conflict. You can help them find ways to cope and to build bridges to a more secure future, and lobby on their behalf for sustainable solutions to their plight.

A broad range of new experiences awaits you. They will change your perspective and draw you into a whole new world.

The field of humanitarian endeavour is open to all those who are ready to commit their time and energy and who display the right spirit. Human beings have the gift of empathy, and that is what you need most to work for the ICRC.

We do not offer summer internships.

Most internships are in the fields of law, communication, protection and humanitarian diplomacy. Internships are also available in specialized units such as engineering and economic security, but are offered less frequently.

To learn more about the availability of internships, please visit our website.

ONLINE APPLICATIONS

Because we receive a large number of applications, we notify only those candidates who have been shortlisted. If you do not receive a reply to your application within two months, you are not among the shortlisted candidates.

The ICRC may need people to fill the posts listed on its website at very short notice. Please bear in mind that the ICRC may also recruit into a pool, which means that there may not always be vacancies in a certain category, at times for several months. We suggest that you regularly consult our website for the latest announcements.

Your chances of getting a post will improve significantly if you meet all the requirements.

We will consider only one application per person.

Once you have submitted the online application form, you will receive an acknowledgement by e-mail from jobs.gva. If you use an anti-spam filter, please configure it to allow mail from jobs.gva; otherwise, you may not receive an acknowledgement.

MISSION

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) is an impartial, neutral and independent organization whose exclusively humanitarian mission is to protect the lives and dignity of victims of armed conflict and other situations of violence and to provide them with assistance. The ICRC also endeavours to prevent suffering by promoting and strengthening humanitarian law and universal humanitarian principles. Established in 1863, the ICRC is at the origin of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. It directs and coordinates the international relief activities conducted by the Movement in armed conflicts and other situations of violence.
