SHAN STATE FACTS AND FIGURES

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has worked in Shan State, Myanmar for more than 20 years. Through our offices located in Kyaing Tong and Lashio, we support families impacted by armed conflicts and other situations of violence through a wide range of humanitarian activities.

We are neutral, independent and committed to helping those in the greatest need regardless of ethnicity, religion or political affiliation.

By coordinating with other humanitarian actors, including the Myanmar Red Cross Society (MRCS), we help all communities affected by conflict to rebuild resilience through access to essential services like healthcare, physical rehabilitation, mine risk education or livelihood support.

Since the pandemic began, we have realigned our operational priorities towards preventing and containing the virus, supporting health facilities, quarantine centres, public schools, IDP camps and host communities, including areas where ethnic health organizations are active.
